LOUIS STAIDER, Dive Wide Open.

IGNATZ BUTTNER, Dive Wide Open.

The same men were out Saturday and Sunday nights, and not only dropped into Staider's, but also paid Mr. Gombosky-Buttner's "Orpheum," a call a little later.

They quietly but firmly repelled the advances of Buttner and Staider's maidens, who pleaded wonderfully that for persons who drank at least every five minutes, and the attention paid to the fatso comic, whose voice degree to the terribly indecent weather.

Such places were Mr. Charles Smith's, Mr. John H. McGurk's, the Lexonx, Mr. John J. McAlister's, Mr. Simon Buttner's and Mr. Paul McCarthy's, at 167, 253, 271, 299, 304 and 327 Bowery respectively; Mr. John J. Murphy's, of 34 Bond street, and Mr. Frank Stevenson's at West Third and Sullivan streets.

In all these places the hatites who now find "business" so "dead quiet" gathered in little groups and cursed. The EVENING WORLD, whose native, persistent crusade has caused such a startling transformation of the usual night scenes along the Bowery and other dive-infested districts.

SCENE INSIDE THE ORPHEUM.

and the "barkeep" himself grew disgusted at to and shut up shop. Mr. Honest, John Kelly's, at 530 Sixth avenue, was little better, but there was an instant and far pallor struck in him at intervals frequent enough to keep the bartender awake. But there were no women patrons and the dive dives was tightly closed.

The barroom of Mr. John Wulper's, "Universe," at 72 University place, was ablaze with light last evening, but it was a wretched extravaganza, and the bar room's profits more than paid expenses. The 15¢ room was tightly closed, and the only female to be discovered in the neighborhood established her headquarters on the sidewalk in the shadow of near the side entrance.

Mr. Jim Sullivan's "Paris House," at 78 Third avenue, was quite as deserted and quiet as Mr. Tom McCormick's.

TIMES OUT IN BOWERY DIVE CASE.

and the furniture and fixings from his abandoned dive is Mr. Frank Stevenson, who has stripped the 250 Sixth avenue dive of all its former furnishings. Messrs. Tom Gould, Gordon Davis, Welch and Waltchers are still keeping their old dives open, in the vain hope that they can again attract after a season's restive inactivity at their old stands.

There is no significance in the remarks emanating from the District-Attorney's office to the effect that the outlaws will no longer have a congenial place for dry-sleepers.

UNION BARTENDERS INDORE IT.

Their Convention Adopts a Resolution on "The Evening World's" Crusade.

At the convention of the National Union of Bartenders, Bartenders, held in the hall of West Twenty-second street this morning the following resolution, offered by Delegate Timko of Philadelphia, was unanimously adopted:

"Resolved, During the past two weeks we have expressed with positive satisfaction a number of new and successful crusades by the EVENING WORLD and other city papers against resorts in this city where abandoned women and men of bad character and reputation congregate for impious purposes to the detriment of honest and respectable business keepers and to the good morals of this great metropolis."

"Resolved, That we heartily endorse and approve the praiseworthy undertaking of the EVENING WORLD in breaking up these dens of vice and moral degradation, and that we hereby express our unqualified appreciation of the laudable efforts in this cause, especially those who have concerned themselves and the public at large."

THE FIGHT IS STILL ON.

Supt. Murray Says All the Outlaws
Will Be Brought to Justice.

Superintendent Murray is still intent upon exposing the evil of the dives and the den of iniquity exposed by THE EVENING WORLD, and the fight against these resorts of infamy is being persistently on.

With the assistance of THE EVENING WORLD, the Superintendent this morning says he has been enabled to accomplish some exceedingly gratifying results.

During the evidence which we have elicited we have had twelve of the most notorious of these dive-keepers indicted, and in three instances the dives are closed and in three instances the Board of Ethics has revoked the license held by these parties.

Vigilance on the part of the Police Department will not be relaxed, and all violations of the law will be detected, and the offenders be speedily brought to justice.

CENSUS BILL IN ASSEMBLY. SEARVANT GUILTY.

Assemblyman Pitt Goss One with the Opposition.

Convicted by a Jury for Shooting
Mrs. Chapman.

His Foul Accusations Against Her
Were Disbelieved.

His Sentence Tomorrow Will Close a Sensational Case.

The sensational trial of Nurse Herbert Searvant for the shooting Mrs. Chapman, the wife of Elihu Root, Senator Mahan began its plea to the jury.

He began by telling the jury that our hearts are warming stories of dastardly and sordid conduct.

"I will not attempt to repeat the tale which has been recited here by the young man.

My tongue trembles in my throat at the thought of it," said the defense.

The jury gazed at the plowboy as if in wonder. Not one of them digested, to turn pale, or shudder, with horror, and looking in the box, the spectators, the two men in the box, the eyes wandering from one to another of the jurors.

The trial was given to the jury at 1:45, and soon returned with a verdict of guilty of assault in the first degree as charged in the indictment.

Searvant was sentenced to Raymond Street Jail, and will be sentenced Thursday.

CLERK SPARKS'S SUCCESSOR.

John F. Carroll Appointed Clerk of General Sessions.

John F. Carroll, Clerk of Special Sessions and Tammany Hall leader in the Twentieth Assembly District, was this morning appointed Clerk of General Sessions, in place of the late John Sparks, by the unanimous consent of the four judges.

Mr. Carroll has been clerk of Special Sessions for the last two years. He lives at 307 East Fifty-first street.

The salary of Clerk of General Sessions is $7,000 a year. Mr. Carroll's salary as Clerk of Special Sessions was $4,000.

It is understood that Commissioner of Accounts Michael T. Daly will be appointed to the chairmanship made vacant by the promotion of Clark Carroll at the regular meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners next Monday night.

The term of the Clerk of General Sessions is for ten years, and during good behavior.

There is no doubt that for a long time past the Clinton complications have caused an intense mental strain upon the Secretary.

The trouble in this respect, the best informed correspondents say, has been aggravated through the inspection manifested by the Postmen, and others to dispute the wisdom of his diplomatic policy.

Fresh breathing sea complications have also been added to the causes which may have implied the Secretary to the verge of mental and physical overwork.
